Statement of JUSTICE BREYER respecting the denial of certiorari.

Carl Wayne Buntion was convicted of capital murder in Texas and sentenced to death in 1991. App. to Pet. for Cert. 18. Because his original sentencing was unconstitutional, he was granted a resentencing and again sentenced to death in 2012. Id., at 18–21. He has now been on death row under threat of execution for 30 years. He tells us that he has spent the last 20 of those years in solitary confinement, isolated in his cell for 23 hours a day. Pet. for Cert. 1. He further tells us that, at age 77, he is now the oldest prisoner on Texas’ death row. Ibid. Texas does not dispute these facts. Buntion now asks the Court to consider whether execution after such an extended delay is cruel and unusual in violation of the Eighth Amendment.

I recognize the procedural obstacles that make it difficult for the Court to grant certiorari in Buntion’s case. I write, however, to underscore how this case illustrates the problems with the death penalty that I identified in my dissenting opinion in Glossip v. Gross, 576 U. S. 863, 908 (2015), and in a number of other cases since then, see, e.g., Hamm v. Dunn, 583 U. S. ____ (2018) (statement respecting denial of application for stay and denial of certiorari); Smith v. Ryan, 581 U. S. ____ (2017) (statement respecting denial of certiorari). I continue to believe that excessive delay both “undermines the death penalty’s penological rationale” and is “in and of itself . . . especially cruel because it ‘subjects death row inmates to decades of especially severe, dehumanizing conditions of confinement.’” Glossip, supra, at 925. The Court has previously recognized that the uncertainty of waiting in prison under the threat of execution, even for a span of just four weeks, is “one of the most horrible feelings to which [a person] can be subjected.” In re Medley, 134 U. S. 160, 172 (1890). On top of that, solitary confinement bears “a further terror and peculiar mark of infamy.” Id., at 170; see also Davis v. Ayala, 576 U. S. 257, 289 (2015) (Kennedy, J., concurring) (“Years on end of near-total isolation exact a terrible price”). Buntion has now been subjected to those conditions for decades. His lengthy confinement, and the confinement of others like him, calls into question the constitutionality of the death penalty and reinforces the need for this Court, or other courts, to consider that question in an appropriate case.

Statement of BREYER, J.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

MICKEY THOMAS v. DEXTER PAYNE, DIRECTOR, ARKANSAS DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION

ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE EIGHTH CIRCUIT

No. 20–7480. Decided October 4, 2021

The petition for a writ of certiorari is denied.

Statement of JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR respecting the denial of certiorari.

A jury convicted petitioner Mickey Thomas of capital murder and sentenced him to death. After pursuing relief in state court, Thomas filed a timely federal habeas petition. Thomas argued, in part, that he received ineffective assistance of counsel because his trial counsel failed to investigate and present mitigating evidence during the penalty phase of his trial. The District Court agreed. Yet without giving Thomas an opportunity to respond, the Court of Appeals reversed on the basis of a procedural-default argument that the State never raised on appeal.

I do not dissent from the denial of certiorari because Thomas’ claim does not satisfy this Court’s traditional criteria for granting certiorari. See this Court’s Rule 10. As Judge Colloton rightly observed in his dissent from denial of rehearing en banc, however, the Court of Appeals’ decision to reverse based on an argument that the State failed to make on appeal, and that Thomas never had the opportunity to address, deprived Thomas of “fair notice that the issue was ‘in play.’” 977 F. 3d 697 (CA8 2020); see Day v. McDonough, 547 U. S. 198, 210 (2006) (“Of course, before acting on its own initiative, a court must accord the parties fair notice and an opportunity to present their positions”). This lack of notice left Thomas without a meaningful opportunity to dispute the grounds on which the court reversed the District Court's decision to grant him habeas relief.

Where, as here, a State declines to argue procedural default on appeal, a court of appeals should at a minimum afford a capital petitioner the opportunity to respond and be heard before adopting an argument on the State's behalf. The denial of certiorari should not be understood to endorse the Court of Appeals' failure to do so here.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

SAMUEL ALEX GANN v. UNITED STATES

ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SIXTH CIRCUIT

No. 20–7701. Decided October 4, 2021

The petition for a writ of certiorari is denied.

Statement of JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR respecting the denial of certiorari.

The Armed Career Criminal Act (ACCA) mandates a minimum 15-year prison sentence for an individual convicted of being a felon in possession of a firearm who has at least three prior “violent felony” convictions. 18 U. S. C. §924(e). Section 924(e) defines “violent felony” to include generic “burglary,” defined as “unlawful or unprivileged entry into, or remaining in, a building or structure, with intent to commit a crime.” Taylor v. United States, 495 U. S. 575, 599 (1990). To determine whether a prior conviction qualifies as generic burglary, courts apply the categorical approach: “They focus solely on whether the elements of the crime of conviction sufficiently match the elements of generic burglary, while ignoring the particular facts of the case.” Mathis v. United States, 579 U. S. 500, 504 (2016).

When petitioner Samuel Gann was convicted of being a felon in possession of a firearm, he had three prior convictions for aggravated burglary under Tennessee law. See Tenn. Code Ann. §39–14–402(a)(3) (2018) (“A person commits burglary who, without the effective consent of the property owner . . . [e]nters a building and commits or attempts to commit a felony, theft or assault”). Gann argued that his Tennessee convictions did not qualify as generic burglary under the ACCA because they lacked the element of “intent to commit a crime.” Taylor, 495 U. S., at 599. According to Gann, his crime of conviction could be committed by an unlawful entry into a building followed by commission of a reckless crime, without ever developing the intent to commit a crime. The District Court rejected Gann’s argument and sentenced him to the ACCA’s 15-year mandatory minimum.

Gann appealed and reprised his argument that his Tennessee aggravated burglary convictions lacked the element of intent to commit a crime, rendering the ACCA enhancement inapplicable. The Sixth Circuit rejected Gann’s argument, citing United States v. Nance, 481 F. 3d 882 (CA6 2007), and Brumbach v. United States, 929 F. 3d 791 (CA6 2019) (reaffirming Nance as the law of the Circuit), decisions in which it had rejected different arguments for why different elements of Tennessee’s aggravated burglary did not match the elements of generic burglary. The Sixth Circuit reasoned that these decisions “le[ft] no room for raising still more arguments about Tennessee aggravated burglary.” 827 Fed. Appx. 566, 569 (2020) (internal quotation marks omitted).

However, “[q]uestions which merely lurk in the record, neither brought to the attention of the court nor ruled upon, are not to be considered as having been so decided as to constitute precedents.” Webster v. Fall, 266 U. S. 507, 511 (1925); accord, e.g., United States v. L. A. Tucker Truck Lines, Inc., 344 U. S. 33, 38 (1952) (where an issue was neither “raised in briefs or argument nor discussed in the opinion of the [c]ourt,” there is no “binding precedent on th[e] point”). In Nance, for example, the Sixth Circuit held that Tennessee aggravated burglary “comports with [the] definition of a generic burglary as committed in a building or enclosed space.” 481 F. 3d, at 888 (internal quotation marks omitted). But the parties in Nance and Brumbach did not address in their briefs, and the Sixth Circuit neither discussed nor decided, whether Tennessee aggravated burglary also comports with the requirement that generic burglary include the intent to commit a crime.

Statement of SOTOMAYOR, J.

Gann’s argument has not been addressed by the Sixth Circuit, which leaves this Court without a reasoned decision to review. I nevertheless agree with the decision to deny certiorari because further consideration by the lower courts would assist this Court’s analysis of this new argument. To that end, I would expect the Sixth Circuit to give the argument full and fair consideration in a future case.

SOTOMAYOR, J., dissenting

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

ARLANE JAMES, ET AL. v. NOAH BARTELT

ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE THIRD CIRCUIT

No. 20–997. Decided October 4, 2021

The petition for a writ of certiorari is denied.

JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR, dissenting from denial of certiorari.

On May 24, 2011, Willie Gibbons was shot and killed by a police officer. It is undisputed that the officer who shot him knew that Gibbons suffered from a mental illness and that he was holding a gun to his own temple. It is also undisputed that Gibbons never threatened the officer in any way and that the encounter was over within seconds, leaving Gibbons fatally wounded. The remaining facts surrounding his tragic death are disputed, including whether Gibbons’ right arm was by his side or raised in surrender, whether the officer instructed Gibbons to drop the weapon or spoke unintelligibly, and whether the officer gave Gibbons a chance to comply or opened fire immediately. In light of these substantial disputes of material fact, the District Court declined to grant qualified immunity to the officer on summary judgment. The Third Circuit took a different view of the facts, reversing and granting qualified immunity.

For the reasons ably set forth by Judge McKee in his dissent from denial of en banc review, the Third Circuit erred by improperly resolving factual disputes in respondent’s favor and by overlooking binding precedent to conclude that he did not violate a clearly established constitutional right. See Gibbons v. New Jersey State Police, 969 F.3d 419 (2020). I add only that qualified immunity properly shields police officers from liability when they act reasonably to protect themselves and the public. See, e.g.,

SOTOMAYOR, J., dissenting

White v. Pauly, 580 U. S. —, — (2017) (per curiam) (slip op., at 1) (holding officer who “witnessed shots being fired by one of several individuals in a house surrounded by other officers” before shooting and killing an armed occupant of that house did not violate clearly established rights); Plumhoff v. Rickard, 572 U. S. 765, 768 (2014) (holding officers who shot the driver of a fleeing vehicle “to put an end to a dangerous car chase” were entitled to qualified immunity). It does not protect an officer who inflicts deadly force on a person who is only a threat to himself. That proposition is so “apparent” that any reasonable officer is surely “on notice” that such a use of force is unlawful. Hope v. Pelzer, 536 U. S. 730, 739 (2002) (internal quotation marks omitted).

I would grant the petition and summarily reverse the Third Circuit’s judgment. I respectfully dissent from the Court’s failure to do so.
